

Donald Van de Mark

Donald Van de Mark works in Sonoma Valley, where he sells real estate. Donald consistently performs in the top 2% of Sotheby's 47,000+ agents worldwide. Good representation requires market intelligence, careful listening, communication skills, and hard-nosed negotiation. These are skills Donald honed over twenty years as a political and business correspondent.

Donald was the first Washington Correspondent for CNBC and anchored the news in New York for CNN. He currently lives in Sonoma Valley and San Francisco, was reared in Toronto, has a BA from Tufts University and attended St. George's School in Rhode Island and Upper Canada College in Toronto. He's the author of The Good Among the Great, 19 Traits of the Most Admirable, Creative and Joyous People. .
